SEEN AND HEARD

Washington—A drive against "track" in so-called protective committee of stock or bondholders of corporations, especially those in reconvertibility, is about to begin as an altogether unexpected development of the securities and exchange commission activities.

Every investor has realized for some time that there were grave abuses in these committees, that they run up fees and charges even when they were legitimate, and that all too often their main purpose was to be bought off by those really trying to reconvert the corporation in the interest of the stockholders.

So far there is no indication that the commission is going any further, but its reports to congress, which will be made in a few months, will, according to very reliable sources, at least start a movement which gets very far beyond the doing something about the high cost of reconvertibility.

For the present the commission is doing chiefly at men who have made practically a business of getting unthinking stock and bondholders already faced with the prospect of losing part of their investments, to go into moves which benefited the operators, but in the long run only increased the loss of the investors.

The next logical step, senators familiar with the plan declare, is to get after the perfectly excellent legal and other fees being charged for administering the financially crippled organizations.

One senator cited a case where a hotel property is being administered by three lawyers, no one of whom ever had any experience in hotel management, but who are being paid $10,000 a year each for their services in directing the property's operations. Actually, by of course, no one of the three does more than sign the checks.

He never said as for the simple reason that the St. Lawrence seaway has been a very popular issue for many years. But the fact stands out that unless he pulls wires with really extraordinary success, the treaty will be defeated again this year. And he may just content himself with a strong public appeal, perhaps a vigorous message, favoring the treaty, instead of turning on the heat in private, which is the only way the thing can possibly be gotten through the senate.

Let Our Motto Be GOOD HEALTH

LET THE AIR BE MOST IN YOUR HOMES

I remember as a boy being with my father past a very pretentious house. It was below zero that morning, and recalling our own frozen windows at home, I exclaimed, "Gee, they must keep it a hell of a lot warmer in that house. See there isn't any frost on the windows."

And my father answered, "Those people should be ashamed of themselves for not frost-proofing their windows on a cold morning like this. These clear windows mean that the air in their house is too dry. You may be sure they have a good deal of sickness."

I knew that was true, for the girl was in my mind, and she always had a cold. Then we went into a house on whose windows the frost was so thick that there were only spots of blank glass. But I can always see in my mind that big cheerful kitchen with the tablecloth singing on the wood-burning stove. The children, not allowed to go out yet, were rosy-cheeked and noisy in an active way, and there was a big bowl of apples on the table and a pitcher of milk.

"That's a healthy family," said my father, when we were outside again. "Did you notice that there was steam going into the air all the time? It could breathe with comfort there."

One of the first things I learned in medicine was that my father's observation was true. People who live in houses in which the air is too dry are almost always ailing.

RUG WELL NAMED "BED OF ROSES"

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

The original rug shown measures 44 inches and requires four pounds of rug to complete. It is finished with three strands, but can be crocheted. A crocheted rug has better wearing properties. Many colors are used in the following combinations: Center circle in white, yellow, red, and black. Turquoise of the outer circles in various shades of blue, and yellow. Outer edge in rose, yellow, black and white.

The rug shows that beautiful rug can be made of rug. The regulation or common rug, rug, either round or oval, with various color combinations, and when finished has no particular beauty. In making the above "Bed of Roses" rug, make seven small round rugs about twelve inches in diameter, and set them as shown here, then work twelve all around to size wanted. It is a different rug and only another idea of what can be made of rug.

The best material for making rug is "Lankrat." When using this material no cutting or matching of sizes is necessary. Lankrat is a round crocheted material like jersey. It comes in slabs about five inches long, but stretches to about nine inches when laid together. These slabs are to be linked together.

Ennity Forgotten One of the most remarkable Christmas trees was put on view in London last year, a Scots Guard exhibition.

It was made by a German soldier and presented by him to a Scots Guard with whom he exchanged greetings in the New Year's land between the trenches on Christmas day, 1915.

We have in ourselves the best barometer that will tell us whether or not the air we are breathing is too dry for health. Between your nostrils is a thin membrane. If the mucous lining of that feels dry when you touch it with your finger, then you are a good subject for a cold.

CONSTIPATION Can be Helped! (Use what Doctors do)

Why do the bowels usually move regularly and thoroughly, long after a physician has given you treatment for constipation?

Because the doctor gives a liquid laxative that can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually rub the dose. Do not sleep in the seat of real and safe relief from constipation.

Ask your doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives right relief when the dose is repeated, instead of the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit—even in children. Your druggist has it; ask for it.
